

PANDEMIC FLU:

You can help save lives

We need your help!

Share your concerns on pandemic flu. You can make a difference.

It's only a matter of time before the next flu pandemic strikes. Help us get ready.

Nearly 779,000 people in the U.S. died in three influenza pandemics in the 20th century. During a widespread pandemic, everyday life can be disrupted because so many people in so many places become seriously ill at the same time.

How will you protect yourself and your family?

Your local health department is preparing a plan to handle a flu pandemic — one that considers how citizens are likely to respond to this type of health emergency. To do that, we need to hear from you.

Take part in a Pandemic Flu Citizen Engagement, a series of focus groups to examine what values and concerns would guide your actions in an emergency. Help make it easier to decide the best course of action to protect our community. The health departments will use these public discussions to modify their pandemic plans.
